

Third Days of Action Against the Blockade In Washington DC, September 11-16, 2017

The International Committee for Peace, Justice and Dignity, along with other organizations in solidarity with Cuba in the United States, are planning the Third Days of Action Against the Blockade from the 11 to the 16 of September, 2017.

The central focus of these activities will be the effects of the blockade on the health of all the Cuban people.

Activities will include:

- Visits to Capitol Hill directed to Congresspersons and Senators whose cities, towns or States with high percentages of people affected with diabetes, cancer, etc.
- Events in Medical Schools with students and professors.
- Meetings with health professionals in U.S. hospitals and health institutions.
- Closing cultural event of solidarity with Cuba.

We are making a call to committees of solidarity with Cuba around the world to join this new Days of Action against the blockade in September by organizing activities in their countries and cities for a common and united call to end the US blockade against Cuba.

For more information write to: info@theinternationalcommittee.org

<http://theinternationalcommittee.org/events/>